What is a Paramedical Exam?

A paramedical examination is a personal visit With the applicant to collect their medical History. This information allows the insurance Company to perform an evaluation of the Applicant's current health. The exam usually Includes height, weight, blood pressure and Pulse. It may also include the collection of Blood, urine, oral fluid, and an EKG or X-ray, Depending on the insurer's underwriting Guidelines. All information is kept confidential And released only to the insurance company Medical department.

Where is the Exam Performed?

A nurse, medical assistant or M.D. will Perform examinations at the applicant's home, Workplace or our office location at the applicant's Convenience.

What if Blood has to be drawn?

Our Phlebotomy expertise will set you at ease, our techs are highly trained with over 10 + yrs experience. Only single-use sterile, disposable needles are Used to collect the specimen, and vinyl gloves Are always worn.

What is an Ekg?

An electrocardiogram, or EKG, records electronic Impulses of the heart. This painless procedure is Usually complete in less than 10 minutes.

What happens when the Exam is complete?

The examination and any additional requirements Are forwarded to the insurance company. Any Specimens obtained during the examination are Sent to the designated laboratory, and the results Forwarded to the insurance company.
